Insurance coverage litigation

Paula has handled all types of insurance coverage litigation, including disputes arising under:

- ◆ General liability policies;
- ◆ D&O and E&O policies;
- ◆ Umbrella and/or excess policies;
- ◆ Property damage and fire policies;
- ◆ Specialty lines;
- ◆ TPA agreements;
- ◆ Reinsurance;
- ◆ Stop-gap medical insurance policies; and
- ◆ Life, disability and medical insurance policies.

Her coverage practice includes handling bad-faith cases and providing coverage opinions on complex insurance issues, as well as disputes involving agents and brokers. Paula also does appellate work and has handled a number of appeals before the 7th Circuit and 8th Circuit Courts of Appeals.

While Paula's practice focuses on insurance coverage litigation, she also advises clients on insurance-related business matters, such as drafting policy language and she has negotiated a complex Claim Service Agreement for a Fortune 100 company that carried a $1 million deductible on its liability coverage.

Electronic litigation, group head

Paula is the head of the firm's Electronic Litigation practice group and holds an Advanced E- Discovery Certification from Kroll Ontrack. She provides a wide variety of services involving Circuit, 1996 electronic case management, e-discovery and trial presentation, including:

- ◆ Development of policies for implementing electronic litigation holds;
- ◆ Analysis of electronic evidence preservation requirements, including investigation and analysis of client systems, software, hardware and storage procedures and cost-effective options for preserving relevant data;
- ◆ Identification and retrieval of potentially-relevant electronic evidence, including cost-benefit analyses of various methods and tools for identifying and retrieving e-data;
- ◆ Oversight of competitive bidding and negotiations with third-party vendors providing electronic evidence services to ensure optimal quality and price;
- ◆ Analysis and implementation of cost-effective e-document review tools, including the development and use of searchable databases, the formulation of search terms to identify relevant and privileged data and the use of culling and de-duplication protocols for processing electronic data;
- ◆ Electronic production of evidence, including analysis of the format for production (e.g., native, .tiff or other formats);
- ◆ Legal representation in litigation involving electronic evidence, including depositions of IT personnel and third-party e-discovery vendors and discovery motions involving e-discovery and technology issues.

Paula also supervises the firm's Litigation Technology Support Manager, who manages internal and vendor-provided services requiring litigation technology.

Regulatory and legislative activities

- ◆ While she focuses her practice on litigation, Paula also has represented clients in market conduct examinations by the Minnesota and Florida Departments of Insurance and has testified on proposed insurance regulations in Texas and California and on NAIC model acts.
