Overview

Hannah is a transactional and litigation attorney with experience meeting the legal needs of businesses and individuals. She works in the Corporate/Business Services; Employment; Real Estate; and Wills, Probate, Estates & Trusts groups.

In her commercial practice, Hannah drafts and reviews contracts for the sale of goods under the UCC, including equipment, building materials, raw materials and other commodities.

She is a member of the Hispanic National Bar Association, American Bar Association and the Minnesota Bar Association. In addition to her other law school accomplishments, She was the recipient of both the Justice Thurgood Marshall Scholarship and also the Brill Scholarship. She was a member of the Dean's List and a member of Phi Alpha Delta and Latino Law Student Association. During law school, she participated in the Hispanic National Bar Association's National Moot Court Competition, where her team was awarded Best Petitioner's Brief in the Nation on a complex securities litigation problem modeled after the United States Supreme Court case, Stoneridge Investment Partners v. Scientific-Atlanta. As a first-year law student, Hannah was selected to participate in the Minnesota State Bar Association's Minnesota Minority Clerkship program.

Prior to her legal studies, she studied public policy and non-profit advocacy, earning a Master's Degree. She served a series of internships throughout all of her studies. Outside the office, Hannah enjoys spending time with her friends and family, cooking and traveling.
